showed a decidedly friendly feeling towards the Islands, and are ready to do the fines for the wrong entries made by the sugar agents on their jute bags should be remitted.

"The Senate and House committees that have our affairs in charge are always anxious to secure information about the Islands, and are ready to do anything that they consistently can for us. But they act rather in a judiciary capacity. No desired legislation is brought before Congress from any part of the Union without representatives appearing from both those who are in favor of and those who are opposed to the measure. These committees hear both sides and decide the question on its merits. If a matter is brought before Congress to which there is no opposition, they would naturally conclude that the measure was all right and give it very little investigation, as they are so much occupied in the rush and work on all subjects.

"So that, if the Hawaiians persist in maintaining their party independent from the two large American parties, and the Republicans should lose the election this fall, it seems almost imperative that some arrangement should be made to have a representative there, to be prepared to express the Republican side of any question that may arise.

"After the bill apportioning our Senate had been reported favorably by the Territorial committee in the house, they were surprised to know that it really removed three Home Rulers, two Republicans and two Independents—Messrs. Russell and Kanuha—and more than one member of the committee expressed his regrets that he did not thoroughly understand the matter; that the majority of the committee were Republicans, and they certainly would not intentionally take any action which would injure the interests of the Republican party in Hawaii. And, of course, the Republicans here cannot blame Congress if they allow matters to go by default.

"Among the things that impressed me is this, that Congress is no place for any private bills. It does not like to assume the responsibility of settling questions involving matters away out here, and much prefers that we settle them ourselves.

"From the discussions of the past, they seem to think that perhaps after all the natives are not fit for self-government. And one thing is certain, that Hawaii can expect to accomplish nothing unless all factions pull together for our own advantage first, and leave the petty differences on local affairs for discussion here only. In other words, we must present a solid front to secure favorable legislation, and can well afford to follow the example of a people of a city like Chicago, that when any matter comes up that affects the interests of the city, all party lines are buried and everyone does his best to win out for Chicago, in either the State Legislature or in the National Congress.

"So that no matter what the outcome of the election this fall may be, all parties in Hawaii should agree that no measure would be brought before Congress except those on which all were united. In this way we would make a very favorable impression, while now they seem to think that we are so divided here that they can do nothing for us.

"I am very glad to get back to Honolulu. It seems to me the place never looked prettier."

LAST THREE DAYS OF TOURNAMENT

The preliminary round of the mixed doubles in the tennis tournament, played yesterday afternoon, resulted in Miss L. Ward and A. R. Cunha defeating Mrs. S. G. Wilder and W. F. Dillingham, 6-4, 6-4.

The first round will be played today on the Pacific Tennis Club's courts as follows:
At 4 p. m.—Miss N. Kitchen and W. P. Roth vs. Miss L. Ward and A. R. Cunha.
Mrs. A. M. Brown and F. C. Atherton vs. Miss E. Horner and C. A. Elston.

At 5 p. m.—Miss N. Adams and D. H. Hitchcock vs. Mrs. M. Gunn and A. T. Brock.
Mrs. R. Ivers and E. R. Adams vs. Miss R. Cunha and J. T. Irvine.

The semi-finals will be played tomorrow and the final on Saturday, both on the Pacific courts.

Today and until the end of the tournament the ladies and friends of the Pacific Tennis Club will serve tea during the play. The members of the Beretania Tennis Club are especially invited to be present and the general public will also be made welcome.

Judge Severely Scores Dinklage.
H. Dinklage, manager of the Manoa ranch, was severely censured by Judge Wilcox yesterday. He was charged with keeping a bull dangerous to the public safety.

The bull, it appears, has been in the habit of chasing people and destroying property. Mr. Effinger, the principal witness for the prosecution, testified to having been chased by the bull but could not swear that it belonged to Dinklage. He was pretty sure about it, however.

Defendant stated that his bull was always tied up and could therefore do no damage. He said moreover that folks who do not fence in their property must expect to have damage done on their premises by strays.

Judge Wilcox took up defendant right there and gave him very plainly to understand that it was not incumbent upon householders to barricade their property against the inroads of dangerous bulls. It was incumbent, however, said the Judge, upon the owners of furious animals to keep them confined so that they could do no harm.

On account of the failure of the prosecution...

his time at his quartz mine in Southern California. His experience in the desert, drinking water charged with alkali and eating salt meats, was a good one as he was able to climb daily 3000 feet to the mine, and in the end lost nearly all traces of the rheumatism with which he had been afflicted.

"That mine," said Mr. Fitch yesterday, "is one that is as promising as a man could wish for, and if I make the money out of it that I expect, I will endow a memorial hospital here in Honolulu, and I mean it, too."

"As to my Marcus Island interests, I can say that Mr. Peacock and Captain Rosehill were about to close a contract when I left San Francisco for the purchase of one or two vessels. Everything was arranged to load her and I presume the vessel has put to sea by this time. She will call at Honolulu en route to Marcus Island. They were to fill her with provisions, railroad iron, lumber, etc., and upon arrival at the island will set a lot of men at work building lighters and houses and prepare for the shipment of the guano deposits. Captain Rosehill will also take along a chemist who will test the guano on the ground, and select a sample cargo, part of which will be shipped to Honolulu and part to San Francisco.

"The necessity for a fertilizer for Southern California for the citrus orchards is apparent. These orchards require a fertilizer of phosphate of lime and the demand is growing each year. There is a market for about 30,000 tons a year for this kind of guano, and the company has offers for contracts for one-half of that amount already from California, based upon the assumption that the guano contains over 60 per cent of phosphate of lime. Our samples show 78 per cent.

"The original idea was to take the fertilizer to California, manufacture it there, and then put back in the vessel bound for Marcus Island what was intended for Honolulu, leaving it here en route back to Marcus Island. If the rock phosphates are there in the quantities that Captain Rosehill asserts and equal to the samples he brought, the island is simply worth millions to us, and if not, the island is worth nothing to us.

"There is no question about the United States owning the island. We have given a bond and have the license from the Secretary of the Treasury to remove the guano.

"The general impression on the Coast is that there will be no reciprocity with Cuba, and that the administration has given up the fight. The sugar trust has been knocked out of the fight. I think that Cuba will be annexed in the next few years after the Cubans are through with playing with the toy they call a republic.

"The general opinion that reciprocity with Cuba was at an end for the present produced a good feeling with respect to Hawaiian sugar stocks. Most of the business people look for a small advance in sugar.

"I met Governor Dole and Mr. Thurston on the steamer on my way to the Coast and formed an interesting acquaintance with them."

THE SWORD"

Alack, there lies more peril in thine eye Than twenty of their swords.—Shakespeare.

It would seem from Shakespeare's musings, there are other things mightier than either Pen or Sword.

The power of a perfect eye is weird in its mystic spell. If you would have perfect eyes and perfect eyesight you must heed the warnings that tell of eye-strain—Nature's demand for help.

When eye help is needed, let us be the helpers.

Dear Sirs: In my innocence I purchased in Honolulu a jar of your

Pin-Money Pickles

It brought me great trouble, and one of three things must occur:

1. You must stop making them; or

2. I must get them at less expense; or

3. I am a ruined man.

Since my first venture I've had many "jars." My family neighbors ring the door-bell and shout "Pickles!" relatives visit me in expectation of "Pickles."

Your pickles are my Nemesis. Please, dear sir, quote them by the keg, barrel, hoghead, ten or shipload, and "preserve" me. Yours very truly,
